FLOOD OF RESPONSE TO FUND DRIVE

This weekend's rainstorm, the third in four weeks, again washed out roads and downed power lines. Route 2 near the Bethel cloverleaf and Route 26 by the SAD44 bus garage were closed much of the day Sunday as the Androscoggin overflowed its banks (including here, over land acquired by the Mahoosuc Land Trust). Twin Bridges in Riley washed out -- shortly after it had been repaired from an October washout. There were numerous power outages from high winds, including Vernon Street, the Grover Hill Road, and the Intervale Road in Bethel, and Route 5 in Albany. One area of Greenwood did not get power restored until shortly after 4 a.m. Tuesday morning. As of Tuesday morning, Route 26 from Newry Corner north was still closed (except for local traffic) due to washouts in Grafton Notch. The Sunday River Road above the Monkey Brook intersection was also closed for repairs. And many residents with cable suffered an additional loss Sunday: they didn't get to see the Patriots beat the Dolphins, because the cable was out. Predictions were for another round of wind and rain Tuesday. But no forecasts here on the Patriots -- who are even more unpredictable than the weather this season. More photos, page 5.

Little middle ground here on clearcutting petition

By ALISON ALOISIO

Wood industry officials are predicting dire consequences in the Bethel area if the Green Party succeeds in putting an end to clearcutting in Maine's unorganized territories.

Organizers are close to having the 11,000 signatures needed to put the question to voters in a referendum next year. It approved it would limit clearcutting and set new standards for logging to leave more trees standing after a logging operation.

The petition followed predictions of a new chapter in the struggle for the future of Maine's forests.

protections had been in place since the 1970s and 1980s.

The Green Party argues that the forests need rehabilitation. Otherwise, they say, there will be little forestland left for loggers and recreationalists.

Tom Foote of Hiram, an Oxford County Green Party representative, gathered 184 signatures at the petition drive last week. He said the 1997 Forest Practices Act is too liberal in its standards.

By those standards, as long as an area contains more than 50 square feet of forest area after harvesting, it is not considered to have been clearcut. Based on the square foot area of a circle of the diameter of a tree measured four and a half feet above the ground. Roughly speaking, that would be the equivalent of 30 one-foot diameter trees (not counting saplings).

That's about the equivalent of a 4 x 8 sheet of plywood on a football field," said Foote. "No one seeing that would call it anything but a forest."

The Greens maintain that those standards -- taken in addition to true clearcut areas under 30 square feet -- damage the forest ecosystem by preventing trees from growing back quickly. And in the process, the area produces less oxygen from photosynthesis than would a mature forest area. The Green Party also says that any replanting of a clearcut area results in vast even-aged stands of trees with little variety -- making the trees more susceptible to insects and disease.

On the economic side, Foote said small loggers are forced to follow the paper companies' cost-effective clearcutting practices in order to compete with them. He said some small-scale loggers have signed the petition because they would like to compete under the new rules.

Foote also said he didn't think the Board balks at letting freight siding slide

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad Company has put $300,000 into a nearly completed freight siding in Gilead, but under the terms of Bethel Station's site plan approval that siding was supposed to have been located in Bethel.

And before they agree to accept the change, Bethel Planning Board members want to know more -- not only about the siding, but about other alterations to the site plan approved by the board.

The new railroad siding is intended to replace the Railroad Street siding, which is now occupied by the ski train and restaurant.

LOCAL VOTING RESULTS--Area voters last week supported Question No. 1 -- an attempt to limit the civil rights of gays and lesbians. Oxford County voters, along with voters in much of rural Maine, also liked the proposal. Locally, the margin of support for Question No. 1 was roughly 52 to 48 percent. Throughout the county, the margin was 55 to 45 percent. But statewide Question No. 1 went down to defeat, receiving only 47 percent of the vote. Much of the opposition to Question No. 1 came from relatively large and/or higher-income communities. That pattern was also apparent in local returns, with Bethel and Newry voting soundly against the proposal and the remaining area towns strongly favoring it. (In the chart above yes votes are indicated first, then no votes. Thus "51-43" would mean there were 51 yes votes and 43 no votes.) Local voters were also out of step with voters statewide on the matter of seat belts. Area towns voted heavily against a proposal to make the use of seat belts mandatory, but statewide the measure passed narrowly. (Leaving New Hampshire as the only state in the nation without a mandatory seat-belt law.) On other questions voters here followed the statewide pattern -- easily passing four bond issues, totalling $91.9 million, and approving two constitutional amendments: one protecting the retirement fund for state workers, the second giving the governor line-item veto authority. Voters in SAD44 towns also approved -- by a margin of nearly two to one -- a measure calling for school budget to be voted on in town-by-town referendums (see related story). And Bethel voters approved, 621-331, a measure authorizing the establishment of an airport authority to manage operations at the Col. Dyke Airfield. The new board replaces the current Airport Advisory and Airport Industrial Park committees.

SAD44 budgets

Taxpayers' group says it wants to work with board

By ALISON ALOISIO

A new taxpayers' group -- designed to let the SAD44 School Board know early in each budget season what taxpayers can afford for education -- is being organized by Marie Bartlett and Pat Dooen.

Bartlett and Dooen were instrumental in getting the school budget referendum question put on the Nov. 7 ballot. "With a 2-to-1 vote, we have a playing field that's changed," said Bartlett. "We want to try to iron things out before they (the school directors) get too far into the budget."

The board usually begins preliminary budget work in February or March.

Dooen said the group will gather information, including possible tax base increases and town budget forecasts, from district towns' selectmen.

"We would look at what the taxpayers can afford, while the district looks at what it needs, and try to come together somewhere in the middle," she said.

Dooen used the analogy of Bethel's new budget process, in which the budget committee and selectmen work simultaneously on building the town budget. She said in previous years, the selectmen proposed a budget which was then reviewed by the budget committee.

"Once a board or committee adopts a budget, it puts them in a defensive position with it. I think doing it simultaneously is a positive move," she said.

As for the makeup of the taxpayer group, Dooen said it should be

Suspect IDed in Breau's Too break-ins

By ALISON ALOISIO

Evidence against a Kennebec County man in a Breau's Too burglary was scheduled to be presented to an Oxford County grand jury yesterday.

Captain Jim Mielon of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department said Monday he has fingerprint evidence against the 19-year-old man. Mielon declined to identify him prior to the grand jury date.

Breau's Too, in Bryant Pond, was burglarized on Oct. 30. Mielon said. About $1,200 worth of lottery tickets, food stamps, and cigarettes were taken.

GREAT VETERANS SHOW AND TELL

To the Editor:

I would like to congratulate Nan Timberlake and all the other members of the Education Group of the Bethel Bicentennial Committee on the wonderful "Veterans Show and Tell" which took place on Wednesday, Nov. 8, at C.P.S. It was interesting to look through all of the memorabilia on display from the Civil War through Vietnam including pictures, uniforms, letters, documents, medals, swords and bayonets, and such fun to listen to all the veterans sharing their memories with each other and the visitors to the exhibit. I thought it was great that so many veterans took the time to dig out their souvenirs to share with everyone as part of Bethel's Bicentennial Celebration, and I would like to thank them for a very enjoyable time.

The "Veterans Show and Tell" was the third in a series of events being planned by the Education Group which will continue through 1996 in conjunction with the Bicentennial. Future exhibits being planned include: retail and commerce, education, recreation and social activities, town government, farming, famous people and many more. A great deal of thought and hard work is put into each event, and I would like to urge everyone to make a special effort to visit them as they take place during the next year. Admission to all of the Education Group's exhibits is free, but donations are gratefully accepted to help defray costs. Check the weekly "Bicentennial Notes" column in the Citizen for announcements of when and where the various displays will be, as well as other news of interest about the Bicentennial.

Many other special events are being planned by the Bicentennial Committee throughout 1996, and I hope that all the residents of Bethel, past and present, will come out and join in the celebration.

CHRISTMAS FOR FAMILIES

To the Editor:

As difficult as it is to believe, Christmas is nearing and we would like to call upon the community to help us make Christmas special for families that might otherwise go without. For anyone that doesn't know, Christmas for Families is a nonprofit organization that obtains names of families that need help and through donations of time, money, articles of clothing, toys, books, Christmas ornaments, food, etc., meets the needs of those families. If there is anyone who knits or crochets, we would be happy to provide the yarn to make hats, mittens, sweaters, etc., or materials for other items.

The families may be assured that their names remain anonymous. Christmas for Families tries to work with other area organizations so that there is not a duplication of items. We try to make sure that all members of the family receive something as teenagers love Christmas as much as younger children. Please feel free to contact me at 836-5960 for more information or a form if you wish to answer leave message and she will call back to you.

There will be a Bethel Bazaar at Locke Mills Legion hall on Friday, Nov. 17, and there will be a food sale and raffle drawing the night of the bazaar.

BETHEL BICENTENNIAL CALENDAR

To the Editor:

Throughout the past year, the Bethel Bicentennial Committee has been making plans for a variety of events and activities to officially commemorate the town's 200th birthday celebration. Events began this fall and many more are planned for 1996. Fundraising is an ongoing effort through the sale of Bethel Bicentennial T-shirts and sweatshirts, raffish, etc. A Bicentennial coin is being planned to appear before the end of 1995 and other means of raising money are being explored, including a special Bethel Bicentennial stamp cancellation. More ideas and participation are always welcome. We need everyone in this celebration, individuals, families, businesses, etc. Let's make 1996 the most spectacular year in the town's history.

One of the other sources of funds is the Bethel Bicentennial Calendar that just went on sale this month. It includes photos of the past and also the present to give both newcomers and native a feeling for the town's history. Congratulations are in order for the committee which planned the project. Danna Nickerson, Chair, Randall Bennett, Arlene and Don Brown, and George Nickerson. We are also grateful to the Bethel Historical Society, Don Brown and the Maine Historic Preservation Commission for funding historical photographs. In addition, over 75 individuals, families and businesses donated money to sponsor this calendar and they deserve much credit for their support.

The calendar is available at the Bethel Historical Society, Books N' Things, Pauline's, Maine Press, Preb's, Maine Line Products and The Village Sampler for only $5. Be sure to get yours early as only 1,500 were printed and we expect this souvenir of Bethel to be a collector's item in the future.

Stan Howe, Chairman
Bethel Bicentennial Committee

BLAZING A NEW TRAIL—This 1987 Chevy Blazer driven by Christine Deml, 47, of Berlin, N.H., took an unexpected detour by the Wild River in Gilead Thursday. Deml was headed east on snow-covered Route 2 at about 7:30 a.m. when she lost control on a hill just before the bridge. The Blazer crossed the center line, hit a guardrail, and then crossed back over the road and down the embankment. Deml received minor injuries.

From the

Bethel Town Office

S.S.D.C. is the way we at the Town Office refer to the Sewer System Development Charge. It is a fee adopted in 1990. Who pays it? A new or expanded user pays a one-time charge which is the proportional cost of increasing the capacity of the wastewater collection, pumping and treatment system. Calculations to establish the fee are based upon the new gallons of daily flow of wastewater projected to be generated by each new or expanded user as established in the design criteria of the Maine Department of Human Services' State Plumbing Code.

The following example may help to better understand how the S.S.D.C. charge is calculated. Example: A three-bedroom residence is converted into a restaurant with 20 seats and three employees serving three meals a day on china plates. The plumbing code tells us that the dwelling unit uses 180 gallons per day. This is the grandfathered amount. The restaurant will use 30 gallons per day per seat plus 15 gallons per day per employee for a total of 645 gallons per day. The "grandfathered" use is then subtracted from the new usage for a figure of 465 gallons of new usage. The 465 figure is now multiplied by the fee, set by the selectmen, of $12 -- 465 gpd x $12 = $5,580.

Is this fee "set in concrete"? Not necessarily. If the applicant can present records from a like establishment indicating lower usage, this information will be taken into account. Or, continuous records over a minimum of one year will also be considered.

What happens to the money? The proceeds from this charge go solely toward the overall capital costs of financing the necessary capital improvements and capital equipment purchases to increase the capacity of the wastewater facilities. This fund is separate from the normal maintenance and upgrading repairs which benefits existing users.

The S.S.D.C. charge is often considered excessive. However, it is the one way we have of insuring that those people who are creating the need for expensive improvements are the very people who are paying for those improvements.

A Gay Rights Post-mortem

By MIKE BROWN

The remarkable thing about last week's referendum vote on Question No. 1 was its close race: that is the winning "no's" only garnered 53.3 percent of the statewide vote.

Consider its omnipotent opposition of not only the expected and highly organized in-state and out-of-state gay and lesbian groups but some 50 Maine corporate entities of businesses, labor, education, local banking, municipal associations, chambers of commerce, medical, Maine's Congressional Delegation and other star politicians like Gov. Angus King and the state's attorney general.

Add to that major league line-up almost the entire media of Maine which had nearly a collapse of journalistic objectivity. Editorials, columns, letters and opinion pieces are one thing. Slanted news columns of bias are quite another. Perhaps the wet finger to the wind, thin-skinned media felt their ads and editorial revenue were intimidated by the massive No Parade. Perhaps a touch of hysteria or flock fever.

President Harry Truman said of the media it was like a bunch of birds on a wire. When one flew they all flew.

But perhaps the biggest weight that tipped the fulcrum 6.6 percent to the winning side was money, money, money.

The opponents of Question No. 1 received and spent an incredible $1,222,668 in their win. The proponents $85,935 in their loss. Look at the vote in another way. The no votes cast were 220,335 -- or $5.55 a vote. The yes votes cast were 193,414 -- or 45 cents a vote. A five flush beats one of a kind any day.

And another remarkable statistic concerning the money issue in the vote. In the final week before the vote, most polls were showing a rapid rise in the number of citizens who were going to vote yes. In the financial reporting laws there is the "48-hour report," that is, a report defining receipts received in the 48 hours before voting. This law is to publicly identify moneys raised to support or defeat an issue "at the last minute" and that would not otherwise become available on reports post-balloting. In those 48 hours, the opponent no's raised and spent a quarter million dollars!

The turnout was also one of the largest vote and spending referendums in the state's history. But not quite the largest. The 1987 vote to essentially end the Maine Yankee nuclear plant operation brought out a lesser 399,060 voters but $4.5 million was spent, primarily by the winning side to keep nuclear power generating in Maine.

In 1990, the Sunday sales controversy totaled $18,507 votes but only $418,705 was spent by both sides. And 381,138 votes were tallied in 1991 on a referendum to deauthorize the law on widening the turnpike and establishing a transportation policy. Both sides spent a total of $1.18 million in their causes. The yes votes won by a 67.416 vote margin.

In 1993, the state legislators and constitutional officers term limit question was a landslide (159,785 -- 76,322) favoring term limits. But only some $400,000 was contributed to that issue, mainly by philanthropist proponent Elizabeth Noyce.

But it was the so-called "gay rights" referendum last week that drew the most ever interest in a state referendum from persons and groups outside of Maine -- which was holding the only gay rights vote in the nation. A considerable chunk of the $1,222 million raised by opponents came from sources outside Maine borders.

The proponents also kept shooting themselves in the heart of their campaign. Carolyn Cosby of Maine Concerned Families was the loose quick draw pistol. She is a professional activist but often arrogant and abrasive. She fatally divided and wounded her forces. Add to this the incredibly ambiguous wording of the question (yes, we have no bananas).

Now the gay rights question becomes a legislative brouhaha. A bill submitted by lesbian activist Sen. Dale McCormick was admitted into the special session (by a one-vote majority of the legislative council) scheduled for the end of this month.

It will be interesting to see if the mighty armada that defeated Question No. 1 on the hustings, will march prominently into the State House and lobby this state issue one-on-one with legislators. If not, there is a ballot bouquet of hypocrisy waiting for them in future elections.

And Gov. King should also get a public reality check on governance and credibility. Not only was he a hired television gun for the opponents but a blatant private propagandist in elected shepherd's clothing.

King's egotism, shift role and sermonizing television commercial rhetoric and outright falsehoods about Colorado's economic disaster after Coloradans voted down special rights for gays was countered by Senate Majority Leader Leo Kieffer who got the straight facts that Colorado is in economic bloom -- which King, and most of the Maine media, completely ignored.

A straight up or down roll call vote on gay rights in the legislature will be most interesting on the eve of a general election year.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

The annual volunteer New England boiled dinner was held at the Dr. Moses Mason House for all guides, garden committee members, and office volunteers on Friday evening, Nov. 10.

Sponsored by the Society's Museum Committee, the event honors those who have volunteered during the summer. Museum Committee chair Judy Haskell thanked all those who helped during 1995 and Society Director Stanley Howe expressed his appreciation to all who had made the season such a success. He also presented a plant to Judy Haskell as a small token of appreciation for her 21 years of service to the museum, many of them as chair of the Museum Committee on his behalf and that of Society Curator of Collections Randall Bennett. Following the dinner, a video of Sturbridge Village, depicting life in New England during the early 19th century, was enjoyed by those attending.

On Saturday, Nov. 11, the Bethel Historical Society and the Greenwood Historical Society jointly sponsored a book reception in honor of the publication of "Maine Life at the Turn of the Century Through the Photographs of Nettie Cummings Maxim," by Diane and Jack Barnes in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. The authors were present to sign copies of the book and many of the descendants of Nettie Cummings Maxim were present as well. Also on display was one of the cameras used by Mrs. Maxim in her photography. Blaine Mills of the Greenwood Historical Society mounted a special exhibit on Mrs. Maxim for the day.

Nettie Cummings Maxim (1876-1910), a farmer's wife and mother of three children, found time to compose, photograph and develop numerous images of her surroundings on the farm at Bird Hill in Bethel, in Locke Mills, and other parts of Oxford County. The book will be on sale at the museum gift shop of the Bethel Historical Society Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and by appointment at 824-2908.

Wanted: one temporary traffic light

NEWRY--Selectmen are looking for a temporary traffic light to install at the intersection of the Sunday River/Skiway Access roads, according to selectman Wendy Hanscom. The permanent light cannot be installed until next spring. Meanwhile, a stop sign has been placed by the south-bound lane of the Sunday River Road. Hanscom said if a temporary light can't be found, Sunday River Skiway has committed to placing someone at the intersection to ensure upper valley drivers can get through the intersection on busy afternoons (and whenever else it is needed) during ski season.

Jordan Bowl hotel next season

NEWRY--Sunday River Ski Resort hopes to have a hotel in Jordan Bowl ready for occupancy by Christmas of next year. Jolan Ipolito, vice president of corporate affairs for Sunday River, told an informational meeting Monday that the new hotel would be "very similar in functionality and housing potential to the present Summit Hotel." The Jordan Bowl hotel would be intended primarily for destination skiers, Ipolito said, and the pace of its construction would be determined by market demand. The hotel would be accessed by an extension from the Monkey Brook Road, said skiway engineer Joseph Aloisio.

Quick steps in Big Apples

LEWISTON--C.N. Brown Co. Monday evacuated about 100 of its Big Apple stores and heating oil offices in Maine and New Hampshire after a bomb threat. Spokesman John Pinto said a man called at 10:17 a.m. and said he had placed two active devices that would explode within an 80-mile radius of Lewiston. State and local police searched for explosives, but found nothing. The two stores in Bethel were among those searched. Lewiston police said the case is still under investigation.

Fire association inventory requested

ANDOVER--Selectman Joe Madigan wants to know who owns what. He has requested a listing of fire equipment owned by the Firemen's Association, in addition to the annual inventory of Fire Department equipment. Fire Chief Ken Dixon estimates that the association, which is incorporated as a separate entity from the department, owns about $100,000 of equipment. Madigan said he was concerned that in the theoretical situation of the Fire Department dissolving, the association members might end up with the equipment. But Dixon said that would not be the case, as the association is nonprofit. The equipment would likely be donated to a town fire department, he said.

Softwoods recover from budworm

PORTLAND--Maine's softwood resources are recovering faster than expected from the spruce budworm epidemic, according to a study released by the Maine Forest Products Council. Softwood reserves were lost to the budworm infestation in the 1970s and 1980s. The research indicates the total inventory of spruce and fir is still declining, but the amount of decrease has stabilized. Complete recovery is expected over the next 20 to 30 years. The report also indicates there was an unexpected decline in harvestable hardwoods, but that the decline was not alarming.

Suit filed against water softener co.

AUGUSTA--(From Waterweek magazine) Maine prosecutors have filed a civil lawsuit alleging fraud against Mountain Springs Water Treatment Co., charging the company with engaging in unfair and deceptive conduct to spur sales of expensive water-softening systems. The state alleged the company misrepresented the need for their water softener, which cost from $2,000 to $6,000. The state also alleged that Mountain Springs failed to disclose financing terms and violated consumer rights by installing systems before a customer's three-day period in which to cancel a sale expired. Attorney General Andrew Keiter said in a statement "There is no legitimate reason for a company to sell water-softening systems to consumers with extremely soft water or to diagnose the presence of bacteria in drinking water by looking in the toilet tank."

International Appalachian Trail started

MARS HILL--Boy Scouts joined members of the International Appalachian Trail last week in clearing a stretch of old road on Mars Hill Mountain as part of a proposed 434-mile footpath in Maine and Canada. "When you guys are our age, you're going to be able to remember the day you put up the first blaze on the International Appalachian Trail," IAT president Dick Anderson told members of Boy Scout Troop 173. Project organizers have set Earth Day, April 22, 2000, as their target date for completion of the trail between Mount Katahdin and Mount Jacques Cartier on Quebec's Gaspé Peninsula.

National forest logging audited

DENVER, Colo.--Logging in the national forests cost $1 billion more than it earned between 1992 and 1994, an audit has concluded. Auditors from the General Accounting Office found the U.S. Forest Service spent about $1.3 billion on logging during the three-year period and collected $300 million in timber-sale receipts, the Denver Post's Washington bureau reported. The discrepancy lies in nearly $900 million of timber sales revenues paid to counties where the forests are located. The money is used for roads and schools. The Forest Service counted that money as revenue from timber sales; the GAO considered it to be part of the cost of the sales.

Ski resort workers hard to find

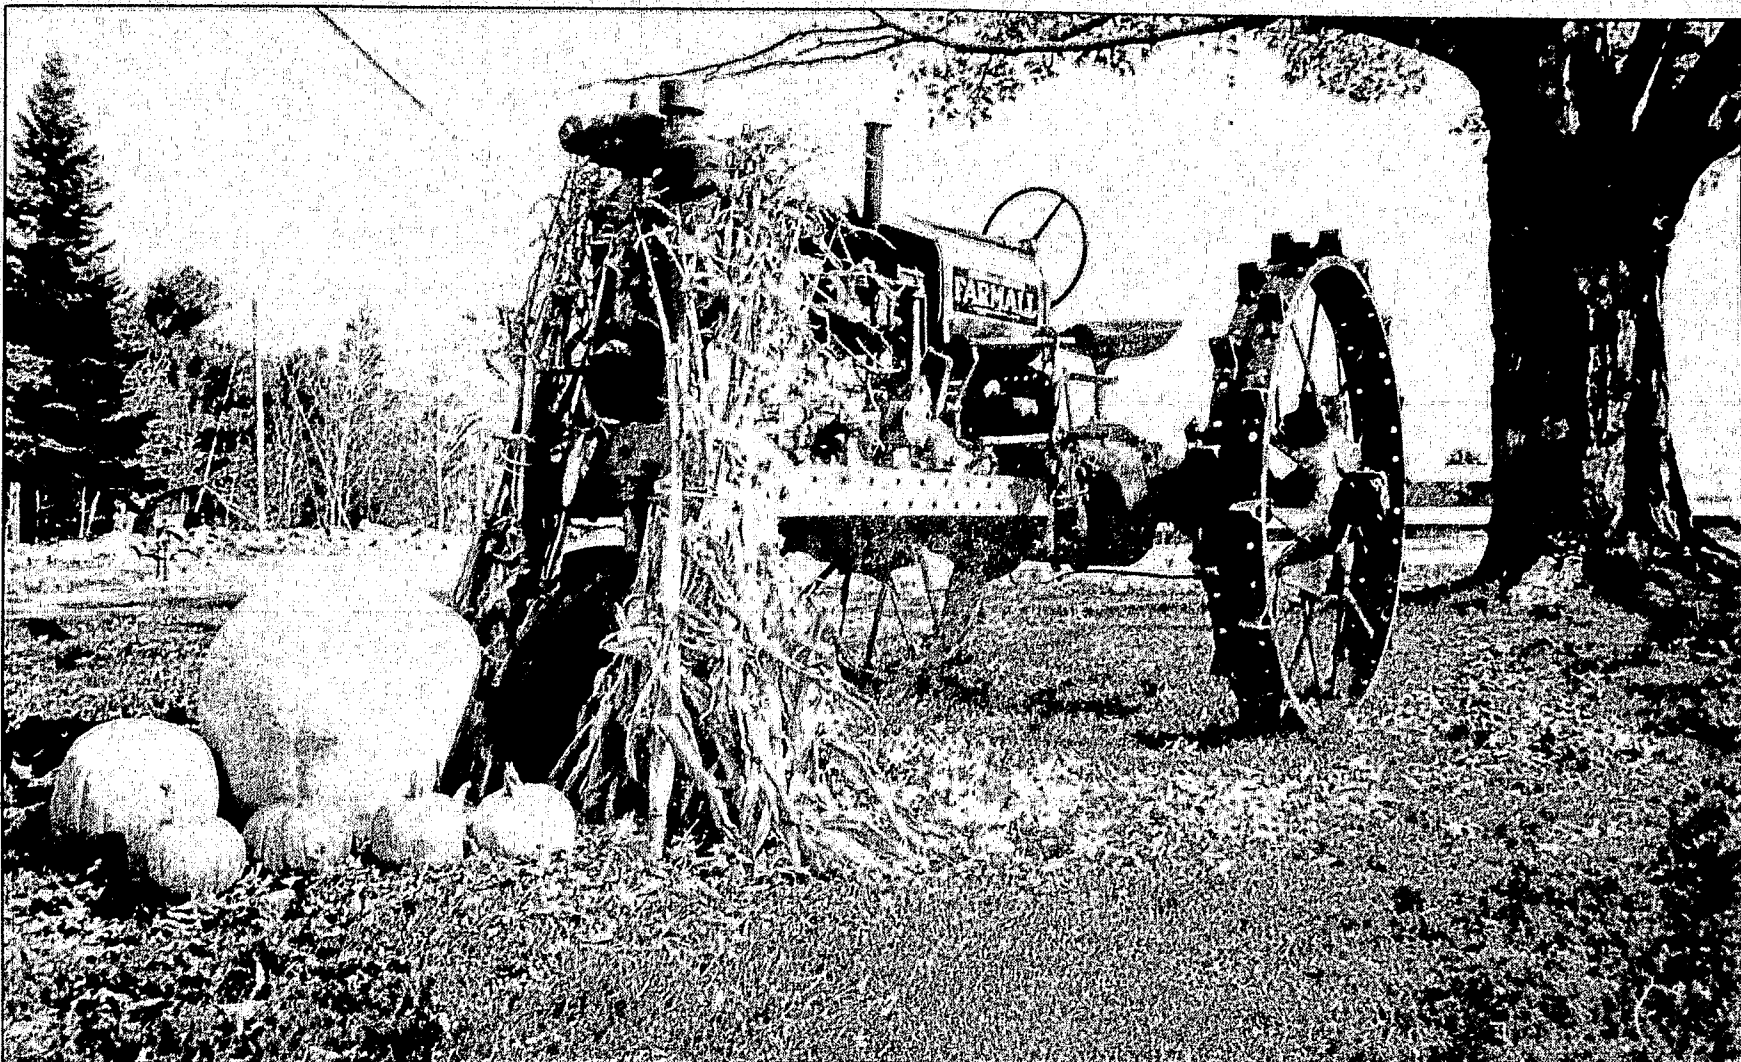

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah--With Utah's booming economy and low unemployment, ski-resort operators are having to offer more to attract seasonal employees. Deer Valley Resort has upped its starting hourly wage from $6 to $7 an hour. In addition, it is offering a 25-cent-an-hour bonus to employees who stay the season, and day vouchers for friends or family members of employees, allowing them to ski free. Park City Ski Area will pay to bus its employees to work from the Salt Lake City and Provo areas. Snowbird Ski and Summer Resort representatives roamed this summer searching for employees. Ken Daily, director of marketing, said representatives held presentations at national parks throughout the West in the hope of attracting workers.

New regulations on bottled water

WASHINGTON--Those expensive bottles of water preferred by many over plain old tap will have to come clean about their sources under a new government regulation. And mothers will be told that even bottled water for infants might need to be boiled. The Food and Drug Administration says its rules "will promote honesty and fair dealing in the market place." "Spring water" will really have to come from a spring and "mineral water" must meet a minimum standard for the amount of minerals it contains. Mineral water previously had been exempt from standards that apply to other bottled waters. And if a product is labeled "sterile," it must meet the FDA's requirements for commercial sterility. Otherwise, the labeling must show it is not sterile. Also, it must be noted on bottled water labels if the water comes from the same source as public water supplies.

Skunked? Here's the solution

Relief for skunk victims: Combine a quart of hydrogen peroxide, a quarter cup of baking soda, and a teaspoon of liquid soap. Bathe your pet, or clothing, or whatever, in the solution and rinse with tapwater. But do not cover or store remaining solution, as it builds pressure and will explode in an enclosed container. The solution was discovered by a Molex, Inc., engineer.

From the Bethel Police log:

Irving station takes some hits

At 7:15 a.m. a Mayville resident reported that a rental truck had struck the awning at the Dunkin Donuts drive-thru on Route 2. The vehicle also pulled off some siding. Damage to the awning and building was estimated at $400.

At 10 a.m. the manager of the Route 2 Irving station reported that a vehicle had struck the building. The vehicle had been backing up to unload at the loading dock and caught the corner of the building. Damage was estimated at $100.

Thursday, Nov. 9

At 5:10 p.m. a search warrant was obtained and executed at Dooen Trailer Park, where it was suspected that marijuana was being grown. Items used in marijuana cultivation were seized, along with drug paraphernalia and weapons. Dana Dyke of Bethel was charged with Aggravated Trafficking in Scheduled Drugs.

Friday, Nov. 10

At 9:55 p.m. a Rumford resident reported the theft of items from his vehicle parked at the Sudbury Inn. Taken was a Realistic scanner ($100 value) and a six-inch Buck knife ($100 value).

Saturday, Nov. 11

At 10:50 a.m. a man was stopped on Route 26 for an expired registration. He failed a field sobriety test and had a suspended driver's license. The man, Gideon S. Dorman of Locke Mills, was then arrested for OUI and operating after suspension. He submitted to a balloon test while at the Oxford County jail. He was held in lieu of bail.

Sunday, Nov. 12

At 1:19 a.m. police observed a dark-colored station wagon with the lights on down over an embankment on Route 26 in Bryant Pond. There were no registration plates on the vehicle, but the front plate was from B and K Auto of Bryant Pond. The Oxford County Sheriff's office said the vehicle was stolen. No damage to the vehicle was noted. At 9:37 p.m. a Massachusetts resident called and asked police to try to locate her husband at the Riverbend Condominiums. He was supposed to have called home after arriving there, and she was concerned because of the weather. Police made contact with the man at the Riverbend. He had not called due to the parking lot at the condos being under water. His wife was informed he was all right.

There were reports of trees downing power lines on Vernon Street, the Grover Hill Road, and the Intervale Road.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

Accused murderer is 1979 Telstar grad

Lloyd Frank Millett, accused of the strangulation killings of two women in the Lewiston area, is a graduate of Telstar High School. School records show that Millett transferred to Telstar from Dirigo High School in September, 1978. He graduated in June, 1979.

Clearcutting

referendum, if approved, would directly affect the Bethel area, because most of the unorganized territories lie farther to the north.

But Boise Cascade forester Andrea Corbett said a change in the laws would still affect the Bethel area.

She said the Green's proposal of between 65 and 90 square feet of basal area to be left after cutting is too high.

"Large areas of forest would have to be left alone for a long time -- including some that are now cut selectively," she said.

She said that in addition, it would not be economically feasible to put logging roads in, at $20,000-$30,000 a mile, if cutting were that restricted.

"It would have severe implications for Bethel-area sawmills. A lot of the area's mills draw their wood from far away," she said.

And regardless of the relative size of local unorganized territories, the ripple effect would hurt area loggers.

"They would still need a market for their wood," she said.

Corbett said a law change would be "devastating" to Boise Cascade, although it is too soon to speculate on exact implications.

"This is the most dangerous campaign ever mounted against Maine's economy," she said. "It would have the same effect on Maine as the spotted owl did on the west," she said.

Elite preserve?

Forester/biologist Don Feeney of Bethel, who works for P.H. Chadbourne Co., questions the Green's motive for the referendum drive.

"I think they want to create an elite recreational preserve not available to the common person," he said.

Feeney said any company with forest land would have to question if it would be worth it to continue to own land under the stricter standards.

"You might have to look at developing it to get returns, or selling it to the government," he said.

Another part of the Green's proposal would restrict cutting in a given area to one-third every 15 years. Feeney said that violates the rights of taxpaying landowners to use their property, and takes away their assets.

He also said tighter restrictions in the unorganized territories would put more logging pressures on forestlands in organized towns. (The Green Party is also encouraging town-by-town adoption of the standards.)

Feeney also disagrees with the Green Party's ecological theory that clear or extensively cut areas produce less oxygen as they grow back.

"Young, growing trees are oxygen producers. A mature forest is an oxygen consumer, because the decay process on the forest floor uses oxygen," he said.

Regarding lack of diversity following replanting, Feeney said that like weeds growing in a garden "you always get more than you manage for."

He said if the existing laws are better enforced the ecosystem will do the rest.

"There's nothing wrong with it -- let it work," he said.

A logger's view

Long-time logger Arthur Head of West Bethel thinks the referendum proposal is too broad-based.

"Clearcutting may make sense in one place, and not in another," he said.

Head logged in the White Mountain National Forest, and he remembers clearcutting done there in the late 1940's.

"I remember an old fellow who said there wouldn't be anything growing there for a thousand years. I went hunting there a few years back. There were some of the most beautiful stands of white birch and poplar you've ever seen. I wish he could have been there to see it," Head said.

He also said limiting cutting to one third of an area every 15 years may be counterproductive, especially in the case of spruce/fir stands, where the root systems are shallow and interconnected.

"If you selectively cut some of them, it lets the wind in, and blows the rest of them down anyway," he said.

LURC commissioner opposed

The 10.5 million acres of unorganized territory is overseen by LURC. Steve Wight of Newry, a LURC commissioner, doesn't favor the clearcutting proposal.

He said the referendum campaign focuses on people's desire "to look at unbroken vistas of forestland. We shouldn't outright legislate away the right to clearcut. The Forest Protection Act can be fine-tuned with a clear understanding of what's involved -- not with an emotional appeal to preserve visual vistas," he said.

Ski trails unaffected

Footo said that while he was gathering signatures at the Bethel polls, several people challenged him to make the cutting stands applicable to ski trails. Sunday River Ski Resort owns potentially skiable terrain in Riley Township.

But Footo said the proposal would not apply in cases of change of use land, and the Greens have no plans at this time to press for stricter regulation.

M. WHELOCK DAVIS

A Tribute

Those who read the beautiful letter of reminiscences in the old church which Mr. Davis sent to the Citizen after a visit here some two or three years ago, caught a glimpse of the idealizing affection with which he turned to the home of his boyhood days. He had a touching tenderness for old associations and valued every reminder of them. Because he so loved Bethel these inadequate words in appreciation of a very unusual personality will not seem unfitting.

Life forced upon him many eliminations, but never compromises. He has given the strengthening example of a man who lived with a rare consistency according to the demands of his own nature, singularly unimpaired by the opinions or habits of others.

A scrupulous, almost Quixotic, sense of honor coupled with a philosophic habit of weighing and balancing motives, led him for life in a world of competition and struggle, and he made no concessions therein. For his recognition of his rare gifts, his rare attainments, which a smaller nature would have craved, he seemed to care little. His was the work of a scholar. He was content with a scholar's rewards.

Saint reserves of physical strength, the extreme sensibilities of a delicately poised nervous organism, forced him for many years to live almost a recluse. There was too always the scholar's tendency to lose himself in his own rich world of thought. Only the few who have had the rare privilege of his companionship realize to the full the social loss.

But all through these many quiet years he has been brought constantly in close, authoritative touch with a constant stream of young life, boys at an impressionable, formative period, the large majority of them with great possibilities of usefulness and service to the world. His wealth of knowledge has been at their command. A man, who had been his student, said last week as he spoke of his great scholarship, "The boys always appreciate him. They were very happy with him."

He made a foreign language to them not only a thing of text book rules. Its literature became a living thing. Its tongue became vibrant with the spirit of its people. He was an inspiring and delightful guide to the wonderful literature of English speaking people. To the teaching of history he brought his broad comprehensive knowledge, his ardor for heroic deeds, his seething scorn of the base and low. He had such an abhorrence of "talking shop" that one hesitates to speak of a rare occasion when he alluded one evening to an experience in class that day when the boys had kindled at some story of gallant bravery in a great battle. As his voice broke, one caught a glimpse of what those boys were getting. They had to the vision--one of the greatest possible contributions to human good--of the supreme worth of a scholar's life in a world seething with commercialism.

His young manhood was in an age of intellectual ferment when new discoveries in science were warring with established religious creeds. He joined the revolt against the absurdities of the orthodox theology of the day. A deep plunge into German metaphysics seemed to bring him to a system of negations. In after years he owned the deepest reverence for the type of men and women developed by the austerity and mysticism of a faith based upon the conviction of intimate communion with a personal God, and deplored its loss. It always seemed that, despite his cosmopolitan training, he remained in spirit essentially a Puritan, that however far his intellectual wanderings from the faith of his fathers, he never really escaped its grasp.

His intellectual honesty forbade him to hold an optimistic view of the universe so far as it concerned the individual. He could not bring himself to accept a theory, because it was encouraging, for which his reason found no adequate grounds. So he had always a certain tinge of melancholy inevitable to a temperament keenly sensitive to the evils of the world and denied the happiness of a sure faith in a future which should right them. He was one of that noble brotherhood of men who have mercy, deal justly, walk uprightly, unmoved by any hope of ultimate reward. To whom the only absolutely essential thing in life is that it be lived nobly.

Siding

Such sidings are used not only for loading freight, but also for allowing trains to pass one another.

At last week's Planning Board meeting, Bethel Station attorney Severn Beliveau said the decision to locate the siding in Gilead resulted from a miscommunication.

"It was a breakdown in communication, and we'll accept that responsibility," he said.

The siding matter was being handled by the railroad and the Maine Department of Transportation, Beliveau said, and both were unaware of the requirement to locate it in Bethel.

An initial site in West Bethel had been examined, Beliveau said, but was ruled out because it was crossed by a 30-foot NYNEX right-of-way.

The original site chosen was three miles up Route 2 in West Bethel across from the furniture factory (Bethel Furniture Stock), but NYNEX has a 30-foot right-of-way right through their property, and NYNEX would not waive that right-of-way, Beliveau said.

The remaining land owned by the St. Lawrence and Atlantic wasn't wide enough for the siding, so working with MDT it was decided that a location a mile farther up Route 2 was the best place to install the siding.

Also at last week's meeting were

Al Smith, president of the railroad, and Russ Finney, MDT deputy commissioner. Both men agreed with Beliveau's contention that miscommunication was the cause of the problem.

"We had no knowledge of the condition," Finney said.

Smith also pointed to miscommunication, and assured the board there was no ulterior motive behind the change in location.

"There's no benefit to Home Merrill one way or another on where the site is," Smith said.

(Neither does Bethel stand to lose, at least in terms of tax dollars, since railroad tracks are exempt from local property tax.)

"We moved it there because we didn't see where the initial site was," Smith said. "And we moved it to a place where the railroad company owned land that abutted the state of Maine land."

Smith also noted that from the railroad's point of view, the railroad site had additional advantages.

The site is out of public view, he said, and unlike the West Bethel site it does not require that an automobile crossing be blocked while trains are waiting there.

"From our point of view, we don't like to block crossings any longer than we have to," Smith said.

Finney also told the board that MDT engineers had inspected and approved the Gilead site.

Tabled until next meeting

Planning Board chairman Don Feeney described last week's session as very helpful and he thanked the three men for coming.

But he said he wants the board to know more, especially from Merrill himself (who due to illness was not at the meeting).

The board voted to table the matter until its next meeting (Dec. 13), at which time Merrill is expected to present an overview of Bethel Station's progress.

In addition to the siding issue, the board members want to look at some other apparent departures from terms of the site plan approval.

These include infrastructure alterations, use of surface-surfaced buildings, and the possible loss of the Merrill Street parking area.

Merrill is also expected to ask for a further amendment to the site plan.

Finally, at last week's meeting, Board Member Sara Harrington alleged "shady, underhanded" actions by the developers.

It's time, she said, for the board and code enforcement officer, "to think about putting some pressure on them."

Bagels and concrete

In other business last week, the board approved the plan for a new bagel shop to go into the building at 53 Main Street (formerly the site of Bethel Chiropractic).

The plan, presented by former Java House employee Edie Okenquist, calls for a sales and seating area and a bakery.

Bagels will be made on site, she said, and lunches would be served. "The idea is to have a place for people to go for bagels and cream cheese, and for affordable lunches."

The application was approved unanimously, as was an application for a concrete batch plant to be located on Route 2 across from the residence of Edwin and Musa Brown (just east of Telstar).

The plant will be located 600 feet from the road on land leased from P.H. Chadbourne Company. It will operate from 5 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The plan was presented by Bruce Plummer of the P&K Sand and Gravel of Naples.

"We are looking to expand into the Bethel area," Plummer said.

He said he expected a maximum of 50 truck trips a day at the site, and that's if it did enormously well.

There were no objections from applicants on either the bagel shop or batch plant.

Tax group

diverse, with people willing to negotiate. She said she hoped a school board director would join the group.

Dooen and Bartlett also plan to do what they can to ensure a well-informed vote on the school budget by citizens.

Bartlett favors the school board going to each of the five district towns to hold budget hearings. She encourages voters to follow the budget process.

"The voters have shown by their vote how they feel and where they want to go. We're all in this together," she said.

Superintendent cautious

The idea of getting tax-related information early suits SAD44 Supr. Ron Jenkins -- but he was uncertain it would be available soon enough in the school budget process to be useful.

"It may be difficult to get it at the time that it's needed. We have a hard time getting information from the state (on education aid money)," he said Monday. But Jenkins said if the taxpayer group can get the information, "as long as they're fair in their presentation, it would be good."

Regarding dealing with a referendum budget vote in general, Jenkins said, "We'll do our damndest to make sure people understand the budget. We'll have to put more effort into selling it."

Wende Gray, Bethel school director, said the board will also have to pay closer attention to voters.

"I saw the vote (last week) as a wake-up call to board members. We haven't been voting what our constituents want," she said. "The public has to have trust that we will listen, and hear them."

He said the suspect tried to cash in the stolen lottery tickets, and the fingerprints matched up.

Michon said the man was released on bail pending sentencing in another case in Lincoln County recently, but he failed to appear. Some of the stolen items from Breau's have been recovered.

Michon said.

He also said he believes the same man is responsible for a break-in the same night at the Lakeside Restaurant in Locke Mills, as well as Nov. 16 break-ins at the Outpost Store in Otisfield and Knightly's Store in Oxford.

FLOOD DAMAGE--Route 26 north from Newry Corner was among the local areas hit hardest by the weekend's rain storm. The four upper photos, by Loretta Berry, were taken midday on Sunday. Clockwise from upper left: water roars through Screw Auger Falls; a partially submerged van (far distance) waits for rescue as knee-deep water covers the road; the waters flood Bear River Cabins, and Ed Powers and Mandy Berry check out the road damage where the water has receded. Right, Bethel didn't escape, as the town was cut off from the south while Route 26 was closed Sunday.

I'm glad to have my neighbors, the Innans, at home again. They were away for a week.

The hunting season has been very quiet here, so far I have heard just one gun shot.

Stephen Conwell has been with us for a week while being some hunting.

I was glad to hear that Mrs. Tom Pledge, Marie Curtis' mother, is doing well after recent surgery.

There was a skunk on the road on the morning of Nov. 7.

And took her mother and me for a ride on Saturday. We did a little shopping and had lunch at Bailey's.

The game have been here all week.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens met at the Grange Hall for their meeting and dinner on Thursday, Nov. 2. A very interesting program was given by Herschel Abbott. A delicious dinner was put on by the Woodstock High School Alumni for the scholarship fund. The Nomination Committee appointments were Wilma Day, Eloise Howe and Rowena Dunham. Members of the Senior Shut-in Committee are Barbara Hathaway, Kay McAllister, Ernestine Riley, Vera Cross and Alice Hoyt. The next meeting will be Dec. 7 at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills, with dinner put on by the Legion Auxiliary. It will be election of officers and a Christmas party. Cards may be exchanged, there will be a box for food to give the food pantry, and a box for "Kids for Christmas." If you so desire, Anyone wishing to exchange an inexpensive or homemade gift may bring one. Music will be played by Mary Lyons.

Franklin Grange No. 124 met on Monday evening with 20 members present. There were two visitors from Mt. Sugarloaf Grange who have been named to the state committee: Betty Kerr, State Youth, and Roberta Ramey, State Lecturers Committee. Carl Brooks received his 70-year certificate.

The Grange is having a Thanksgiving basket to raise money. Each member is to bring something for the basket. Bertha Benoit was sick, so Jackie Stevens presented the program. After opening thought, the theme of the program was patriotic and followed song, "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Lettie Brooks had a reading on honoring the flag. Peggy Blake had a reading on the Liberty Bell, a very good report about State Grange was given by Peggy Blake and Russell Yates. The meetings in December, January, February and March will each have a 6:30 potluck supper before the meeting. There will be one meeting a month, on the third Monday. The next meeting will be Nov. 20.

Every Tuesday at 4 p.m. is Bryant Pond hour on Channel IV T.V. Each Wednesday at 2:30 to 3:45 p.m. is Good News Club at W.L.S. with Miss Marilyn and Helen.

Decisions -- decisions! I've been trying to decide what to do first -- write news or figure out what to make for supper, and your news won't out. Anyway, that old wind is telling us to button up for winter. It's really getting colder.

First of all, I'll tell you about going to the Maine Presidential Straw Voting, which took place in the Bangor Civic Auditorium. I went with the Rev. Norman and Betty Rust, and we stayed Friday night at Penobscot Inn and attended the voting program on Saturday. They said there were over 1800 voters there, and it sure looked it and more. It was exciting for me, as I had never been to it before. State Republican Party Chairman Pam Cahill did an excellent job at introducing and speaking for the candidates at the microphone, and each candidate gave a really good presentation.

There were quite a lot of people from the Oxford County area in attendance. I sure hope the T.V. camera people didn't see me coming down out of the bleachers where we sat by the Oxford County sign. It was not easy nor graceful for short legs to get down from there, and these legs will not go up there again. They will stay on the ground floor. It was a good seat to see everything going on in the room, though. There is something good about everything. It was a first to vote on the new EIT electronic voting machines. Every thing is computerized nowadays,

GET YOUR SHRUBBERY TRIMMED, FREE OF CHARGE--This young moose has been visiting yards in parts of Bethel Village over the past two weeks. Last week she (?) called at the Crescent Park School, much to the delight of students. On Monday, she trimmed bushes in Brendon and Jean Bass' back yard.

which does make things go much faster and easier. I do hope I represented Stoneham O.K. on the voting there.

Also, on Tuesday I was again a ballot clerk along with Phyllis Adams. We had 89 people voting on that day, which was good. Our good friends, Ralph and Harriet Brown, brought in during the day a huge hot pizza from the Stoneham Store Restaurant for us all to share. How nice and thoughtful of them and how good it was. Thanks, Ralph and Harriet. At the end of the day it didn't take long to count the yes's and no's, and it turned out about the way I thought it would.

Well, as of 2 p.m. today, Wednesday, there have been 22 deer tagged at the East Stoneham Store.

Troy Nelson has gone again this year to Virginia on a study-work program through Frisburg Academy. He is due home tomorrow, I believe.

Fran Hamilton has had eye surgery recently in Portland and reports that it was successful and made her vision much better.

Ed Niemi has been sawing wood for Albert Nelson Sr. who splits the wood and delivers it to people in the area so they can be warm this winter.

Phyllis Adams has been to Mexico recently to help her daughter, who has had surgery recently.

The duct work is being put into the new room today at the Stoneham Fire Station. Gendron Oil is doing the work.

Claribel Poland has been helping Charlotte Wormel at the Antique Barn for a few days this week. Claribel said they have been moderately busy.

I'm proud to report that a former South Woodstock native, David Clements, has received his doctor of philosophy in physics from the University of Delaware and the Bartol Institute. David currently resides in Birmingham, Ala., with his wife, Audrey Lazenby, M.D., and their daughter Carolyn. David is the son of Nick and Maria Clements of South Woodstock.

John Cox IV shot his first deer this past week. The deer weighed in at 200 pounds and was a nine-point buck. John is 12 years old and is in the sixth grade. Congratulations! Other lucky hunters were: Shirley Koskela, Jim Braden and Gordon Dillingham.

Congratulations to Luke and Jennifer Bean on their marriage. We all hope you have many years of happiness.

Persons having November birthdays are: Erlon Hadley, Sr., Kris Melton and Amanda Melton. Anniversary wishes for November go to Herbert and Eleanor Ryerson, Ernie and Rhonda Yap, and Robert and Margie Gleason.

Larry Billings, curator of Woodstock Historical Society, reports that the museum has much information on antiques. Mr. Billings has given two pieces of art to the society. He does a lot of reading and writing and says that the museum is our window of the past. Mr. Billings also reports that he catalogues the society's exhibits.

Last Sunday morning, Tommy Poland, Jeanette Benson and I went to breakfast at The Frozen Logger in Bryant Pond. It was a very nice place and we all had a good time chatting while we enjoyed the meal.

Another week has flown by. Time passes so quickly. It seems even more so this time of year when the daylight hours are so short.

Mary Gray and her sons Kyle and Brian were in Pinhook visiting over the weekend. They stopped in on Emma Billings and Sue Silver.

Emma Billings had lunch guests on Monday. They included June Roy, Nancy Henderson and Leatrice Record. They enjoyed some Chinese take-out and had a nice visit.

It was more than a nippy morning today--it was downright cold with temperatures in single numbers and ground white with heavy frost. The ground was really white last Thursday morning after a half-inch snow squall. Sand trucks were out for the first time this season.

Visitors here last Saturday were Brandon and Tara Salway from Old Orchard Beach, Sylvia Swan, Sheri, Tami and Christopher Swan from Auburn.

Mrs. Connie Hindman is a patient at Maine Medical Center in Portland.

Bill and Phyllis Bancroft were in Norway last Thursday.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley

Call to worship at the Newry Community Church was held Sunday morning, Nov. 5, 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "To our Saints," from Scriptures Ephesians 1:18-19 -- "Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints, and of the household of God, and may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth and length and depth and height." There was also a special by Gil Seeley, "Thanksgiving Month."

After the church service on Oct. 29, there was coffee, cocoa and birthday cake to celebrate my 88th birthday, with Pastor Rodney, Kathy Hanscom (who made the cake with the help of her grandson), Nancy Anderson, Sue and Owen Wight, Scott Wight from New York, Susan Bowie, Freda Robertson and the Hanscom children: Jay Daniel, Eric James, Adam Paul and Kelsie Marie, a sweet little girl.

The Windy Valleys Snowmobile Club met on Nov. 8 at the Town Building.

Word was received that Amy Hanscom was operated on at the CMMC in Lewiston for a cataract on one eye, and she says she can see better already. She wants to thank everyone for their prayers.

Sylvia Wight is home from the hospital and doing fine, is very cheerful and looking forward to being active like before her fall. Members of the Newry Community Church gave her a "Love" basket with wishes for a speedy recovery.

Bea Lowell and Doris Parent went to the Bethel Senior Citizens' meeting and baked ham dinner at Locke Mills American Legion Hall Wednesday, Nov. 8, instead of bowling with the "Gang".

A letter from Louise Tetley in Florida tells me that the weather is nice down there so far, but she hasn't done any bowling yet, waiting for Bea and Doris to get down there, then they will do some. Norman plays pool every day and she does a little walking for exercise. She says hello to everyone.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark,

Gil Seeley, Jane Young and Olive Anderson of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes one day last week. Jim Anderson was a guest. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on both the singles and triples. She had two spares, Karlene had two spares and Gil had one spare.

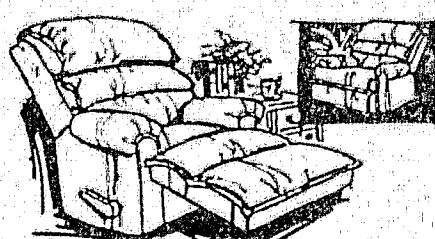

Ras and Karlene Bachelder and yours truly were dinner guests of Kevin Slatier and Polly Mahoney of the Mahosuc Mountain Adventures here in North Newry. Also there were Mike Hughes and Kathy McCully, apprentices who are learning the business of Natural Wild Adventures under the direction of Kevin and Polly, and Kate Mazuy, a handy-man girl who helps around and feeds the dogs when Kevin or Polly are on trips. GASLIGHT GRILL—Nina Wheeler spent Sunday cooking by propane light on a gas grill at the Rebel Recreation Center in West Bethel. With no electricity at her house, she brought her mother to the restaurant early in the morning to make her a cup of coffee. She had no plans to open, as there was no power at Rebel Rec, either. "The next thing I knew I had 11 cars out front. People wanted to know if I could make them breakfast. I said, 'We have no power — if you can deal with that, I'll do what I can,'" she said. Wheeler ended up with about 30 people for breakfast, and a steady stream the rest of the day. Diners ate by candlelight. Several travelers came back to the restaurant after finding they could not get through to Gorham, N.H., because Route 2 was covered with water just this side of the Town and Country Motor Inn. "One man had a bill for $2.65. He gave me a $5 bill, and wouldn't take any change. He said, 'We appreciate your being there,'" Wheeler said.

conversation on many topics. "Real good neighbors" — thank you and God Bless.

P.S. My writings for last week's column, Nov. 8, got lost in the mail somewhere, so some of the items are included above. Does it take four days for a letter to Bethel from North Newry?

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates. Monday morning has rolled around again and that means more news of our doings for the Bethel Citizen.

The weather is fair and cool this morning but more rain is predicted for tomorrow. I guess those in charge are planning on giving us the rain that we missed last summer, when we really needed it.

Not much happened around here last Monday. I did get to a few more miscellaneous jobs outside.

I was having a hard time to breathe on Tuesday and finally went to Norway hospital by ambulance. They checked me over quite thoroughly, took some lung X-rays and found that some of my problem was water bothering my lungs. I was so nervous and shaking like a leaf in the breeze that I had gotten rid of some of the water anyway. They gave me a shot in one vein and perhaps you can guess what I was doing for a while. Well, they finally decided that I was going to live a little longer, so they sent me home, but problems still remain.

We got our first real sign of snow on Wednesday but, thankfully, it all melted. That evening we visited Barbara and Richard Felt in Bryant Pond.

Thursday was a busy day for us. We peeled, cooked, and prepared my pressure cooker about three-fourths full of hot mashed potato, then went to Franklin Grange Hall in Bryant Pond where we helped other Woodstock High School Alumni serve a Thanksgiving dinner to the senior citizens group. Many of us working on putting on the dinner were senior citizens ourselves, but we're too young to really join the group. It was a rainy day, but we had a pretty good turnout of seniors just the same. The Woodstock High School Alumni Association has the receipts from the dinner, and the money they receive is given to help students from the Woodstock area go on to higher education.

Thursday evening, we attended West Paris Grange. It was a good meeting with several visitors from other granges joining us. Earl Andrews, master of West Paris Grange, gave an interesting talk about being at the Maine State Grange session in Ellsworth. Brother Earl went as West Paris Grange's delegate.

I didn't really feel like doing or going to either activity, but it gave me something else to think about and I felt better after going.

It rained more or less on Friday and didn't give one much incentive to try doing anything outside. Our brother, Bryce Yates, from up Sunday River in Newry, called in the forenoon, as he was returning from Lewiston. He visited and had dinner with us before returning home. His wife, Barbara, was at Norway hospital with her mother, Arline Myhrall, who recently had surgery. Arline seems to be doing fine, according to reports.

Sister Peggy visited her doctor in Norway for a check-up Friday afternoon.

We played cards in the evening to help pass those long hours before bedtime.

Peggy didn't attend the dance at West Paris Grange Hall Saturday evening. Mary Lovejoy came down after the pie that Peggy had made to help with refreshments at the dance.

Peggy got her weekly call from her daughter, Myrna White, in Arizona. Myrna is very faithful in calling her mother once each week letting her know what they have been doing out there. It's rather warmer in that part of the country.

Not much excitement here yesterday. We were invited up to sister Laura's in East Andover for dinner, but Peggy expected that her daughter Loretta might be coming down from West Bethel so we declined the invitation. However, the Morrills were very busy getting their winter wood into their basement, so Loretta ended up phoning instead of coming down. We always enjoy having her come as she has a way of giving one's spirit a lift for the better.

We are drawing names for Christmas, and Loretta wanted to know my wishes. I told her I'd like a riding tractor large enough to rototill my gardens and to blow out the snow during the winter.

Allan Lovejoy and Joel Martini from Oxford visited the Lovejoy family on Wednesday.

Saturday evening, Inga and Raymond Mack attended the benefit supper for Bob Dunn in Buckfield. Sunday, they called on Bob Dunn at his home in East Sumner.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on Nov. 18 with more of that good toe-tapping music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

There will be a Thanksgiving Day Dinner on Nov. 23 at West Paris Grange Hall from 12 noon until 3 p.m. The adult charge will be $5 and children under 12 will be $2.50. This is to benefit the Mollycodd Sportman Club. A good opportunity to have your Thanksgiving dinner without all of the work and hassle of preparing it at home.

On Dec. 2, the dance at West Paris Grange Hall will be a benefit dance; all proceeds will go to help "Christmas for Kids," a very worthy cause.

ART GROUP TO HOLD AUCTION, SOUP TASTING

The Western Maine Art Group will sponsor a silent auction and soup tasting on Friday, Nov. 17, in Norway. The event is a fundraiser for the Lajos Matolesy Art Center.

A show of members' works will be on display at the gallery this week. All the paintings will be for sale in the silent auction. The maximum bid for each painting will be $100, although many paintings have a higher value.

Area restaurants are providing a kettle of their favorite soup for the occasion.

The event will take place from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Matolesy Art Center. For more information call 743-5411.

The society is in the process of driving a well at the building at the present time.

On Nov. 11 from 2 to 4 p.m. there will be a publisher's party at the Bethel Historical Society for the signing of the newly published book "Maine Life" at the turn of the century.

The pump organ donated to the society by Sue Bartlett of Bethel has been delivered. The organ once belonged to her grandmother, Florence Littlefield Swift of Locke Mills.

HEUGA COMMITTEE MEETS

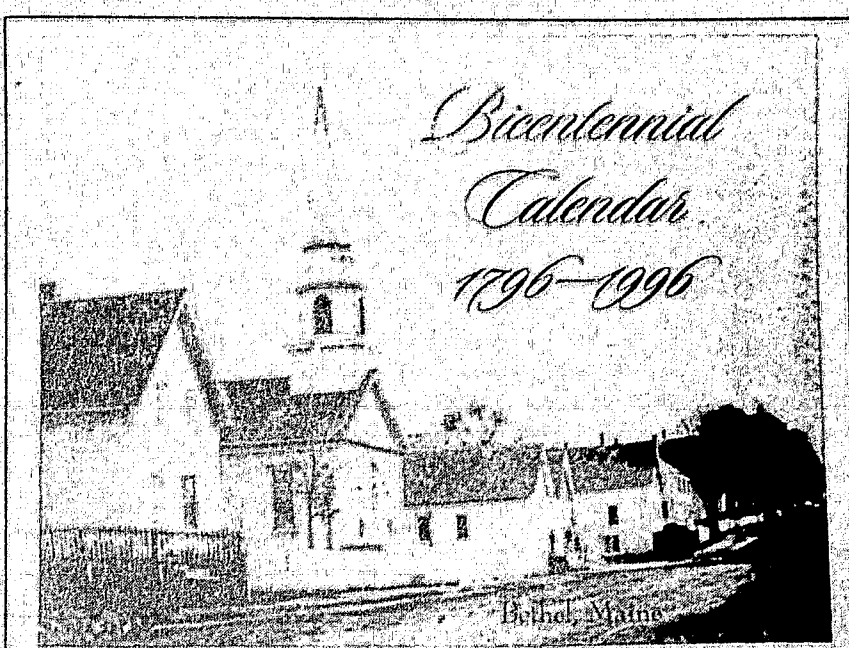

Thursday, Nov. 2, was the first committee meeting for coordinating the Jimmie Heuga Ski Express which will be held Sunday, Feb. 11, 1996 at Ski Mt. Abram.

The committee discussed fundraising events, the second annual silent auction and the need for volunteers. Last year was the first year Ski Mt. Abram hosted this charity event, which benefits people afflicted with multiple sclerosis. The event raised $7,900; the goal this year is $20,000. Twenty-five percent of the funds raised go toward a scholarship fund for a local resident who has multiple sclerosis.

Jimmie Heuga was a 1964 bronze medalist in the slalom at the Winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria. In 1970 his skiing career was cut short by a diagnosis of multiple sclerosis.

This fundraising event consists of three-member co-ed teams. The Ski Express lasts three to four hours, during which the teams ski as many runs as they can to build up marathon points.

Volunteers and teams are welcomed. Information: call Rob Hodgins, event administrator at 207-875-5003 or the Jimmie Heuga Center at 1-800-367-5003.

THE BETHEL BICENTENNIAL CALENDAR went on sale recently. Sales will help support activities planned by the Bicentennial Committee. The calendar is available at Preb's, Maine Press, Books-N-Things, Ruthie's, Maine Line Products, Village Sampler, and the Bethel Historical Society. The price is $5.

CPS Chosen as Consulting School for Technology

On December 8th, the Crescent Park Elementary School will join forces with the Western Maine Partnership and open its doors to dozens of schools in the western Maine area in an effort to highlight the sophisticated technology present in the building. On that day teachers and administrators from schools across the state will have the opportunity to visit the Crescent Park School and observe first hand the academic gains that have been achieved as a result of the technology present in the building.

Following introductory remarks in the morning, visitors will have a chance to observe students at work in the classrooms utilizing the various types of technology including computers, distance learning, e-mail and internet access. In the afternoon, workshops will be offered by the Crescent Park School staff and students. In addition, vendors who provided the technology for the Crescent Park School will also be on hand to offer demonstrations. These will include IBM, Canfield Communications, BCR Enterprises, the Galaxy Network and a host of others.

For the past two years the Crescent Park School has incorporated many different types of technology into the learning opportunities available to children. Interactive television, electronic field trips, Internet, key pals and advanced software opportunities have all helped the students gain a better understanding that the benefits technology can offer education. All staff members at Crescent Park have received a great deal of training in each of these areas and benefit from an active technology team which serves as mentors for the other staff members in the school.

The Consulting School model is designed to offer school systems an opportunity to learn from visiting schools where innovative practices are occurring. In addition to the December 8th workshop, the Crescent Park School has also been actively involved in helping other school systems understand the advantages of technology by providing in-service opportunities after school and serving as speakers at state-wide technology conferences.

On October 17th, David Murphy, the principal of the Crescent Park School, was the keynote speaker for a University of Maine symposium on Internet in the Classroom. In addition, he also presented at the Maine Centers Technology Conference in Augusta earlier that month. Staff members from Crescent Park have also helped school systems in Dixfield and York prepare for their venture into technology.

Fifth-graders Amanda Blood and Shannon Fyrberg display their ability to follow directions by constructing this hot air balloon out of K'nex.

Grandparents Day at CPS

Over 600 grandparents and special friends recently visited the Crescent Park School to observe its annual Grandparents' Day. Grandparents and special friends had the opportunity to visit classrooms and participate in many of the activities that were going on in the school on that day. The fifth-grade students at Crescent Park hosted the event and distributed flowers and Crescent Park School bumper stickers to grandparents who visited. In addition, refreshments were provided in the cafeteria for all of our visitors. These refreshments were also overseen by the fifth-grade students.

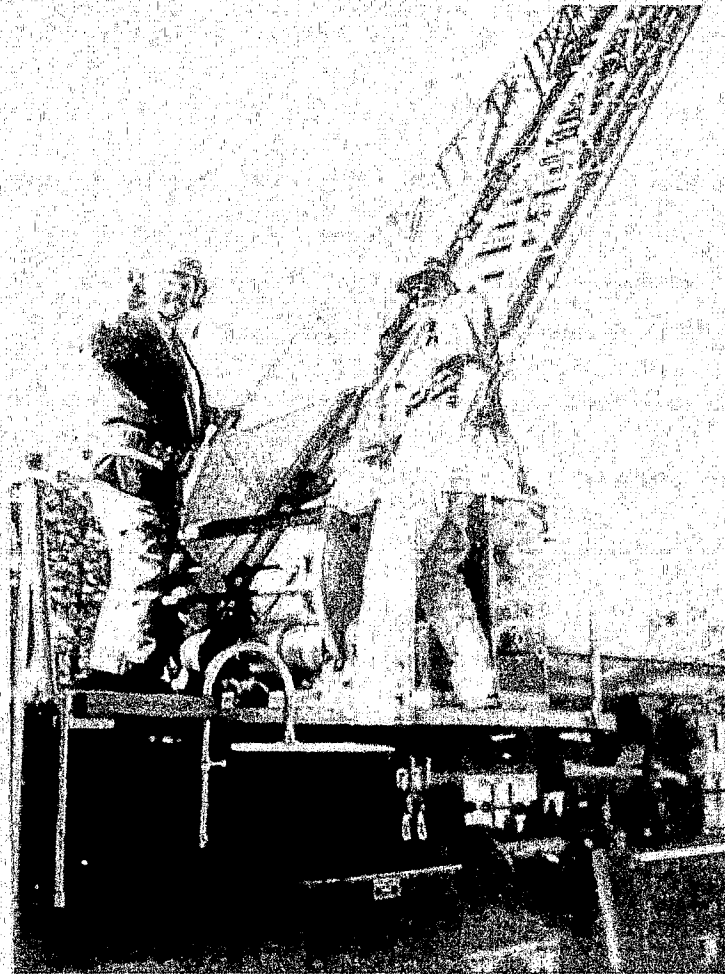

Throughout the morning grandparents had the opportunity to speak with their grandchildren and observe first-hand the way education takes place in public schools today. In many cases grandparents were asked to recall their experiences as students and compare them with the opportunities that children have today.

Grandparents toured the building throughout the day, spending time in the computer lab, library, cafeteria, art room, music room and gymnasium in addition to the classrooms of their grandchildren. As always, it was a heavily attended event with a great deal of positive interaction between grandparents, staff and students.

Each year this particular activity has increased in size as it is proven to be one of the more popular events held at the school. Many grandparents return following Grandparent's Day to play active roles in our volunteer organization. Crescent Park School's doors are always open to grandparents and we appreciate the many efforts that they make to help make our school a special place for our children to grow and learn.

Fire Prevention Highlighted at CPS

The Bethel and Newry Fire Departments recently joined forces to provide Crescent Park students with a meaningful introduction to Fire Prevention Awareness. In cooperation with Crescent Park staff, Bethel Fire Chief Jimmy Young and Newry Deputy Fire Chief Brad Wight visited the schools to discuss the importance of learning fire safety techniques at an early age. Chief Young spoke to each K-3 classroom and provided all of the Crescent Park children with packets of important information.

The Newry ladder truck was demonstrated to the younger students later in the week. The ladder was raised and Brad Wight and Principal David Murphy climbed the ladder for the children.

Fire Safety Week has long been a cooperative effort between Crescent Park and the local fire departments. It is a week thoroughly enjoyed by the students.

Karen Bean Nationally Certified

During the month of October, Telstar Middle School teacher Karen Bean spent three days in Washington, D.C. Karen had been invited to attend a conference entitled Teachers Leading the Way, and while in Washington she attended a reception at the White House and met President Clinton. Karen received these honors because this past summer she was one of 90 teachers nationwide to receive National Board Certification in Early Adolescence/English Language Arts. These 90 English language arts teachers of middle grade students are the first-ever to be board certified in their field. They participated in a one-year field test of the assessment that was administered through 27 test network sites located in 19 states. Karen is only one of two teachers in Maine to receive her certification from the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards in the area of Early Adolescence/English Language Arts.

Candidates for National Board Certification are not judged against one another, instead, each individual teacher's work is judged against a set of national standards. The standards, developed by teachers, are the first ever systematically established to reflect the professional consensus about the critical aspects of Early Adolescence/English Language Arts accomplished teaching. They are derived from the NBPTS core policy statement, What Teachers Should Know and Be Able to Do.

CPS Volunteers Prepared School for the Holidays

Visitors to the Crescent Park School can witness first hand the difference volunteers can make in the appearance of a school. In addition to the many hours that volunteers put in in the classrooms at Crescent Park helping teachers meet the needs of the students, the Crescent Park School Volunteer Program also provides another component for the school which is pleasing to the eye. In preparation for the Autumn holidays, members of the volunteer organization spent an afternoon after school preparing the building for the season. Cornstalks, pumpkins and hearty mums were donated by various Crescent Park families and friends and displayed by members of the volunteer organization.

Throughout the last few weeks visitors to the building have commented on the pleasing atmosphere that the decorations help to provide. Although we realize that our volunteers are primarily recognized for the outstanding work that they do in our classrooms, we are also pleased with the efforts that they provide to help make the school an attractive, caring place for children to grow and learn.

Adult Ed

The Adult Learning Center is cooperating four mornings and two evenings per week with an enrollment of 80 to date. In addition to the students who are working on their GED or high school diploma, we have also had workers, primarily from the Red Top closing. These learners are brushing up on academic and computer skills in preparation for enrolling in post-secondary programs or becoming employed. We have added the services of Frank Gibson, the former Red Top bookkeeper, as a volunteer at the Learning Center in the area of math and computers. Frank will also assist learners working on tutorial programs including Lotus 1.2.3.

Women Unlimited's Oxford County project which meets at the Adult Learning Center is completing their OSHA BSLC. This training program was done at the Bethel Firehouse and is now in Newry. The group will now move to the Bethel Community Concepts Homebuilders site in the area. Graduation will be held in December.

Cathy Newell was the principal grant writer for a Barabara Bush Foundation Family Literacy grant submitted for $50,000 in collaboration with NOVA's George Krohn and Nancy Murphy. This grant would fund the continuation of our Even Start project currently in its fourth and final year. Notification will be in the spring. The grant-writing team also plans to reapply for another Even Start cycle later in 2000. A Maine Family Literacy Initiative Grant for $1,500 for Bethel Datacenter Project was funded by the U.S. Dept. of Commerce as part of the Maine Project through Education Network of Maine. This will fund a web-server and public kiosk at the Bethel Town Office.

The Parenting Support Group, co-sponsored with Head Start is meeting on Wednesday mornings at the Learning Center. Maryvonne Wheeler of Head Start and Nancy Young of Women, Work and Community (formerly Displaced Homemakers) are the facilitators. Lorne Hoch has been doing a parenting course. The group is open to Head Start parents and others. Childcare is provided.

Telstar Middle School sixth-graders went to visit Steve Crone's llama farm at the Telemark Inn in West Bethel. The students have been studying the Inca civilization and the importance of llamas in their culture through the novel 'Secret of the Andes' by Ann Nolan Clark. Steve has volunteered his llama expertise and time. Here, Mike Swan, in the foreground, leads Snow Rave around while Caroline Raymond leads Mocha in the background.

Old Grey Goose to perform in Greenwood

The Mahoosuc Arts Council with the support of the Maine Arts Commission and the Bethel Inn and Country Club will sponsor an old-time country dance on Saturday, Nov. 18 from 8 p.m. 'til midnight at the Greenwood Town Hall, Greenwood. Music will be provided by The Old Grey Goose. Tickets are $4 and will be available at the door or can be purchased at Preb's Pharmacy in Bethel or reserved by calling 824-3575.

The Old Grey Goose has been performing concerts and dances for community groups, festivals and schools throughout Maine, from Fort Kent to Kittery, for the past 15 years. The trio performs the old-time country dance music of Maine and the Maritimes, singing and playing fiddles, button accordion, piano, guitar, banjo, harmonica, fiddlesticks and bones. The group teaches the country dances of New England: quadrille, contra, circle, polka, waltz and schottische.

Since its inception in 1977, the Old Grey Goose has been a prominent force in the preservation and advancement of the musical heritage of New England. They have collected a vast repertoire of songs, tunes, dance calls and stories from elder tradition-bearers and are tireless in their efforts to pass along this legacy. In so doing, they have themselves become an important link in our region's cultural chain, reinvigorating and recycling traditions for use by coming generations.

Award-winning 'Hoop Dreams' on MPT starting tonight

"Hoop Dreams", the true story of two African-American high school students who dream of playing in the National Basketball Association, makes its television debut on Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 8 p.m. on the stations of Maine Public Television.

The award-winning documentary follows the lives of William Gates and Arthur Agee from the summer after they leave elementary school through their entry into college. They soon discover that their dreams of glory become obscured amid the intense pressures of academics, family life, economics, and competition.

"Hoop Dreams" began on Chicago's playground courts. For more than five years, filmmakers Steve James, Frederick Marx and Peter Gilbert collected 250 hours of film, conducted interviews with the young men, their families and friends, and filmed practice sessions as well as basketball games. The result is a rich and complex portrait of two inner-city athletes and their families overcoming enormous odds as they pursue their dream.

Following the premiere of "Hoop Dreams" at the 1994 Sundance Film Festival, where it won the Audience Award for Best Documentary, the film went into theatrical release, appearing on numerous top ten movie-of-the-year lists. The film has won every major critic's award for Best Documentary of 1994, and was named best picture of the year by the Los Angeles Times.

The three-hour broadcast will be immediately followed by "A Hoop Dreams Reunion," a half-hour update that includes never-before-seen footage of William Gates, Arthur Agee and their families, plus an exclusive interview with the filmmakers.

"Hoop Dreams" and "A Hoop Dreams Reunion" can be seen Wednesday, Nov. 15, beginning at 8 p.m. exclusively on the member-supported stations of Maine Public Television.

Gould Academy fall sports awards presented

Gould Academy acknowledged the efforts of its fall athletic teams and players at last week's awards banquet.

Athletic director and field hockey coach, Sue Gardner opened the ceremony with words about sportsmanship and effort and expressed optimism that Gould would again receive the Maine Independent League (MAISAD) sportsmanship banner. Gould was awarded the banner this fall by the league's athletic directors for the sportsmanship shown by Gould teams in the 1994-95 season.

Finishing the season with an 8-2-1 record, the varsity field hockey team won the MAISAD championship for the second consecutive year. Meredith Mason '97 of Bethel, the Huskies high scorer, was elected the offense team captain for the 1996-97 season. Shelley MacQuinn '97 of Bar Harbor will join Mason as the defense team captain.

Andrea Taylor '96 of Bethel and Amanda Syko '96 of Bethel were named all-conference players by the league's coaches. Hannah Quimby '96 of Guilford received the sportsmanship award and the special "Cal Ripkin" award having not missed a practice nor a game in the past four years. Susan Lombardelli '99 of South Portland was named the most improved player.

Seniors Jeremy Vail of Holliston, Mass., and Dylan Hershman of Mill Valley, Calif., were named all-conference players for their play on the boys' varsity soccer team. Chuck Mason '96 of Bethel was awarded the sportsmanship plaque while senior Lanny Popoola of Marina Lagos, Nigeria, was deemed the most improved player by his coaches.

The boys' junior varsity soccer team finished the season with an impressive 13-0-1 record and the MAISAD championship trophy. Senior forward Dave Huljack of Stockton, N.H., nicknamed "the workhorse" by his teammates, earned the coaches' award. Kelly Bryant '99 of Whitneyville earned the coaches' award for his play on the boys' reserve soccer team.

The golf team played under some extreme conditions including bitter cold temperatures and driving winds. Captain Amos Hausman-

Rogers '97 Albany earned the sportsmanship award while senior Anji Grajerski was named the most improved player.

Varsity soccer goalie Rebecca Fraser '98 of Newry played her first year in the net and was named the most improved player by coach Lauren Head. Anneliese Bass '96 of Bethel earned the sportsmanship award while sophomore Christine Monzel of Auburn was named all-conference. Jill Donovan '97 of Norwell, Mass., and Abby Lefebvre '97 of Chester, N.H., were elected team captains for 1996 by their teammates. Desiree Plata '99 of Portland earned the coaches' award for her efforts on the girls' junior varsity soccer team.

Senior Hillary Harrison of Albany earned all-conference status for her running on the cross country team. Classmate Jen Curley of Alna was named the most improved runner for the girls' team while Jon Strazza '97 of Queensbury, N.Y., was named most improved for the boys' team. Chris Kitchen '98 of Holden, Mass., received the sportsmanship award.

The Bethel Library

This is Children's Book Week. There will be a special presentation on Channel TV featuring local children talking about books. It will be aired Tuesday and Thursday at 3 to 3:20 p.m.

A new book in the junior fiction which will appeal to readers of all ages who are interested in medieval England is "Catherine, Called Birdy" by Karen Cushman. Written in a diary form, this is a spirited account of a 14-year-old girl's life in the manor house. Girls in this time period were taught the skills of the lady of the manor in preparation for marriage, but Catherine would prefer to be a Crusader, a minstrel, or a peddler, and is horrified at her father's plans to marry her to "Shaggy Beard." Can she prevent being sold like a cheese to the highest bidder?

New books at the Bethel Library this week include: "Tourist Season" by Hlaesen, "Native Speaker" by Lee, "Vertical Run" by Garber, "Haywire" by Mills, "Return of Merlin" by Deepak Chopra, "Come to Grief" by Dick Francis, "White Butterfly" by Walter Moseley, "Fox's Earth" by Anne Rivers Siddons, "Poseidon's Gold" by Davis, "The Voyage" by Robert MacNeill, "Fault Lines" by Anne Rivers Siddons, "The Hundred Secret Senses" by Amy Tan, "A Place Called Freedom" by Ken Follett, "Amazing Grace" by Kozol, "Another You" by Ann Beattie, "Smoke" by Donald Westlake, "Southern Fleshpot" by Stephen Dobyns, "Ghostlight" by Bradley, "Race Across Alaska: The First Woman to Win the Iditarod Race Tells Her Story," "Silent Night" by Mary Higgins Clark, "Sights Unseen" by Kaye Gibbons, "Sleeping at the Starlite Motel" by Bailey White, and "John Wayne" by Roberts and Olson.

New video tapes added to the library's permanent collection include Brannigan, Distant Drums, The Magnificent Seven, Dark Command, Out of Africa, South Pacific, Andre, A Little Princess, The Lion King, The Swan Princess, Cinderella, Snow White, Seven Alone, and You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown. Some of these video tapes were the gift of Jane Young. There were many memorial/birthday books given to the library recently: "My American Journey" by Colin Powell, given by Lorrie Hoch in honor of Lucia Schwarz's birthday; "Morning, Noon, and Night" by Sidney Sheldon from Harold Rolfe in memory of Monique Rolfe; "The Fundamentals of Bicycle Maintenance: At Home Repair and Maintenance Techniques" (video), given by Linda Gamble in honor of Buzz Gamble's birthday; "How to Bake" by Margieri, in memory of Sue O'Donnell from Mary Gillies; and "The Women's Complete Healthbook" by the American Medical Women's Association from Cathy Newell in memory of Sue O'Donnell. Thanks also to Sue Harvey, Harry Faulkner, Edna York and Linda Gamble for donations of books, audio tapes, and video tapes.

This week, Nov. 13 through 17 is American Education Week. Parents have been invited to visit school, and to eat lunch with their children. It has been helpful to have parents sign up ahead of time, and we are enjoying their visits.

Progress reports were sent home on Tuesday, Nov. 14, and parent-teacher conferences have been set up for Nov. 20. Conferences are held from 12 noon to 8 p.m. Parents, please contact the school if your child has not brought home the time of your appointment.

Thanksgiving Week will be a vacation for the children, but the teachers will be working. First will be the conference day. This will be followed by two teacher workshop days. Then we will enjoy the Thanksgiving weekend.

We are sending our thanks to Eleanor Ross who has been volunteering at our school. Mrs. Ross has helped us out in many capacities over the past few years. We will miss her, and we hope that she will occasionally stop by and see us when she can.

We also are sending our thanks to the Unified Arts Team of the Oxford Hills Middle School for their fine variety of activities presented to our students this past Friday. The younger children enjoyed pudding painting, keyboarding, and relay races. The upper grades had fun with wooden tops, trust walk activities, and making Thanksgiving decorations. This same team of Mr. Ken Loper, Mr. Larry Cousins, Mrs. Kay Norling, Mrs. Pam Berry, Mrs. Sue Craib, and Mrs. Suzanne Kendrick will return again this week and present another activity.

In addition to providing fun, and learning activities, the West Paris students are being introduced to some of their future teachers, and will feel that they do know someone when they begin at the middle school.

Lady Huskies back in action

They thought their season was over last week, but the girls of Gould Academy's field hockey team are pulling out the sticks one more time.

Head coach, Sue Gardner learned by telephone, yesterday, that the Huskies have qualified for the New England Prep School Athletic Conference (NEPSAC) Field Hockey Championship which begins play today (Wednesday).

The call was a bit of a surprise, because a week ago Gould seemed pretty out of the running for a NEPSAC bid, according to Gardner. Last week's calculations and tallies, however, revealed that Gould did indeed have the wins needed to end their season on championship play.

Gould, 8-2-1, and seven other "small school" teams were selected to play in the tournament based on their overall records. The small school tournament is limited to schools with fewer than 150 girls in the ninth through 12th grades. The only school selected from Maine, Gould joins Tabor Academy, Saint Mark's School, Pomfret School, The Pingree School, The Gunnery, Kimball Union Academy, and Holderness School.

If the Huskies win today they will advance to the semi-finals on Saturday. The final match of the single elimination tournament is scheduled for Sunday. (Due to computer failures from the weekend's windstorm, no details of times and places were available at press time.)

Having the best record in the Maine Independent League, Gould was named league champions three weeks ago, but lost in the tournament final to Hebron Academy on Nov. 1. Gould's solid play in the regular season, however, boosted the Huskies above the Lady Lumberjacks in the NEPSAC rankings.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY FEDERAL INSURANCE ADMINISTRATION

Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations for the Town of Bethel, Oxford County, Maine

AGENCY: Federal Emergency Management Agency
ACTION: Proposed Rule

SUMMARY
Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (1% annual chance) flood elevations shown in your community's preliminary Flood Insurance Study and Flood Insurance Rate Map. The base flood elevations are the basis for the floodplain management measures that the community is required to adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

DATES
The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in the community.

ADDRESSES
Study and maps showing the proposed base flood elevations and their delineation are available for review at the Bethel Town Hall, 19 Main Street, Bethel, Maine.

Send Comments To:
Mr. Robert Chadbourne
Chairman of the Board of Selectmen for the Town of Bethel

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT
Michael K. Buckley, P.E., Chief
Hazard Identification Branch
National Flood Insurance Act of 1968
Federal Emergency Management Agency
Washington, DC 20472
(202) 646-2766

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION
The Federal Emergency Management Agency gives notice of the proposed determinations of base flood elevations, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which amended Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448)), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4218 and 44 CFR 67.4(a).

These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 60.3 of the program regulations are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their floodplain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for the new buildings and their contents.

Pursuant to the provisions of 5 USC 605(b), the Administrator to whom authority has been delegated by the Director, Federal Emergency Management Agency, hereby certifies that the proposed flood elevation determinations, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. A flood elevation determination under Section 1363 forms the basis for new local ordinances, which, if adopted by the local community, will govern future construction within the floodplain area. The elevation determinations, however, impose no restriction unless and until the local community voluntarily adopts floodplain ordinances in accordance with these elevations. Even if ordinances are adopted in compliance with Federal standards, the elevations prescribe how high to build in the floodplain and do not prohibit development. Thus, this action only forms the basis for future local actions. It imposed no new requirement, of itself it has no economic impact.

Losses and owners of real property in the Town of Bethel, are encouraged to review the preliminary Flood Insurance Study and Flood Insurance Rate Map available at the address cited above. Proposed base flood elevations along flood sources studied in detail are shown on the flood profiles in the study. The flood sources studied in detail are:
